

Appendix 10: Screening Calendar (2020-2023)

The new Education Monitors will be implemented from 1 September 2019. We want to ensure that all Ghent University study programmes (with the exception of the international study programmes where we opt for the European Approach) have a fully operational monitor by 1 December 2020. From the spring of 2021, the EQB will use the (data available in the) Education Monitors to gain insight into study programmes' quality culture. All study programmes will be screened between 2021 and 2023. The following principles are applied:

1. we have a total of 120 Education Monitors;
2. screenings by the EQB will start from February 2021 onwards;
3. we have determined a screening sequence that is consistent with the NVAO (Accreditation Organisation of the Netherlands and Flanders) accreditation calendar. Study programmes that have not participated in a recent self-reflection exercise (based on the peer learning calendar and the accreditation calendar) are discussed first, the others will follow later;
4. study programmes are informed of the screening of their monitor at the start of the term (X) prior to the screening in the following term (X+1). During the term prior to the screening, they must ensure that the student reflection (report), its discussion on the PC and the external perspective are certainly guaranteed;
5. during their monthly meetings, the EQB members screen a number of monitors from the cohort that has been established for that term;
6. the final version of the screening calendar will be approved by the EQB in the spring of 2020.
